THE NOBLE APPROACH: MAURICE NOBLE AND THE ZEN OF ANIMATION DESIGN

Tod Polson; Maurice Noble

San Francisco: Chronicle Books, 2013.

Third Printing.

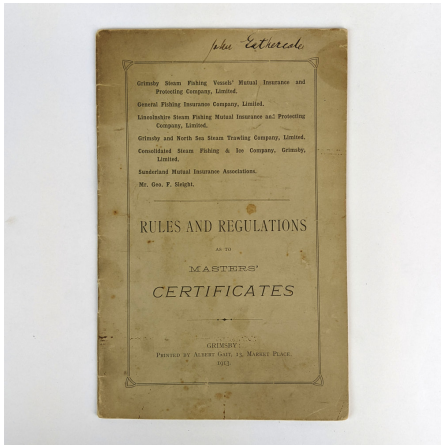

24.5cm x 28.5cm. 176 pages, colour illustrations. Illustrated matte papered boards, white lettering, illustrated jacket.

Maurice Noble (1911-2001) was an American animation and background artist who worked for more than 60 years for companies such as Warner Brothers, Disney, MGM, and Hanna-Barbera. Recruited by Disney in 1934 the first feature length film he worked on was Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. He also worked on Fantasia and Dumbo. During World War 2 he served in a small unit responsible for providing posters, booklets, and films for the military. This unit was led by Theodore Geisel (well known as Dr. Seuss) and he later worked on several Dr. Seuss animated movies. It was in this unit that he also met animation director Chuck Jones, with whom he worked for many years.

STRONG AND SMART - TOWARDS A PEDAGOGY FOR EMANCIPATION: EDUCATION FOR FIRST PEOPLES

Chris Sarra

London and New York: Routledge, 2011.

First Edition. Signed by Author

24cm x 16cm. [x], 201 pages. Glossy blue papered boards.

"Strong and Smart: Towards a Pedagogy for Emancipation tells the story of how Dr Chris Sarra overcame low expectations for his future to become an educator who has sought to change the tide of low expectations for other Indigenous students. The book draws upon Roy Bhaskars theory of Critical Realism to demonstrate how Indigenous people have agency and can take control of their own emancipation. Sarra shows that it is important for Indigenous students to have confidence in their own strength and ability to be as "able" as any other group within society. The book also compares and contrasts White perceptions of what it is to be Indigenous and Indigenous views of what it is to be an Aboriginal Australian. The book calls for Indigenous Australians to radically transform and not simply reproduce the identity that Mainstream White Australia has sought to foster for them." ALBERT NAMATJIRA: GORDON AND MARILYN DARLING'S GIFT TO THE NATION

Francesca Cubillo; Sarina Noordhuis-Fairfax; Kelli Cole; Bianca Hill

Canberra: National Gallery of Australia, 2017.

First Edition. Signed by person(s) connected with book

28cm x 24cm. 112 pages, colour illustrations. Illustrated cloth.

Now out of print. "A bruised ridge of hills. A scrub-mottled plain. Ghost gums framing a wash of sky... Pioneering Aboriginal watercolourist Albert Namatjira's landscape paintings are synonymous with our perception of the Australian outback. But these luminous landscapes also expressed Namatjira's deep connection with the Western Arrarnta Country for which he was a traditional custodian. This is the first publication of Namatjira's work since the copyright was returned to his descendants, and celebrates the legacy of this important artist through a selection of his evocative watercolours from the NGA's world-renowned collection." (publisher's blurb) This copy with a compliments of the National Director of the NGA card, signed by Gerard Vaughan laid in.

I AM A STRANGE LOOP

Douglas Hofstadter

New York: Basic Books, 2008.

Later Printing.

23cm x 15cm. xix, 412 pages, [4] pages of colour illustrations. Illustrated wrappers.

"Can thought arise out of matter? Can self, soul, consciousness, "I" arise out of mere matter? If it cannot, then how can you or I be here? "I Am a Strange Loop" argues that the key to understanding selves and consciousness is the "strange loop"--a special kind of abstract feedback loop inhabiting our brains. The most central and complex symbol in your brain is the one called "I". The "I" is the nexus in our brain, one of many symbols seeming to have free will and to have gained the paradoxical ability to push particles around, rather than the reverse. How can a mysterious abstraction be real--or is our "I" merely a convenient fiction? Does an "I" exert genuine power over the particles in our brain, or is it helplessly pushed around by the laws of physics? These are the mysteries tackled in "I Am a Strange Loop", Douglas Hofstadter's first book-length journey into philosophy since "Godel, Escher, Bach". Compulsively readable and endlessly thought-provoking, this is a moving and profound inquiry into the nature of mind." (publisher's blurb)
